

12

THE AGE
TUESDAY, AUGUST 25, 2009

THE ARTS

THE STAGE THEATRE

So frenchy, so chic

DEBONAIR Frenchman Florian Zeller is as famed for his prize-winning novels and plays as his exceptionally chic place on the Parisian party circuit (his wife is friends with Carla Bruni). His latest work, Elle t'attend (She Is Waiting for You), premiered late last year at Le Theatre de la Madeleine in Paris. Local Francophiles will have the chance to see the play when it's staged by the Melbourne French Theatre from tonight until August 29 at Collingwood College Theatre. The tale of a Parisian couple who travel to Corsica to visit family for the summer, the play is the company's 75th production since it was founded 30 years ago. Starring Deborah Morgan and Damien Kenny and directed by Matthew O'Sullivan, it will be performed in French with English surtitles.